

HOMEPAGE DESIGN DIRECTION · 2026

A Era dos Descobrimentos

A premium re-skin of the Navigate Wealth homepage — the same navigation, the same footer, the same content, re-set in imperial purple, antique gold and dark grey, and drawn with the instruments of the Portuguese Age of Discovery.

I Why the Age of Discovery

The brand is already a ship under sail, and the AI adviser is already called Vasco. The direction doesn't invent a metaphor — it finishes the one that's there.

I

Instruments, not decoration

The ornament is functional-looking: wind roses, graduated limbs, rhumb lines, latitude rules. Every flourish reads as an instrument for finding your way — which is exactly the promise an independent adviser makes.

COMPASS ROSE · ASTROLABE RING

II

Gilt earns its place

Gold appears as metal, never as a fill: hairline rules, corner ticks, numerals and a single gilt button per view. Scarcity is what makes it read as premium rather than gaudy.

ONE GILT ACTION PER SCREEN

III

Chart paper, not white

Light sections move from clinical #FFFFFF to a warm parchment, watermarked with azulejo tile geometry. It flatters photography and makes the dark bands feel deliberate rather than default.

PARCHMENT #F7F3EA

IV

Nothing moves

Navigation order, footer columns, section sequence and every word of copy stay exactly where they are. This is a re-skin with new type and new ornament — not an information-architecture change.

SAME IA · SAME CONTENT

Palette & Typography

Three families, strictly ranked: dark grey builds the structure, purple carries the atmosphere, gold is the metal that marks what matters.

	Purple 700	#4C2A93	Gradient partner to brand purple
	Brand Purple	#6D28D9	Unchanged — existing -- primary
	Purple 400	#A78BFA	Links and inline accents
	Gold Deep	#8A6A25	Hairlines on parchment
	Gold	#C7A24C	Rules, ticks, numerals, icons

ABCDEFGHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ 0123456789 I II III IV V VI VII VIII

INTERFACE — INTER, 300 / 500 / 600

Independent advice, plainly explained.

Body copy stays in Inter at a 1.75–1.85 line height. The serif is reserved for display: page titles, section headings, card titles, statistics and numerals. Nothing below 13px is ever set in the serif.

HERO H1	Cormorant 76 / 1.02	–1.5% tracking
SECTION H2	Cormorant 52 / 1.05	–1.5% tracking
CARD TITLE	Cormorant 24 / 1.15	600 weight
EYEBROW	INTER 10.5 CAPS	+30% tracking
BODY	Inter 14.5 / 1.8, weight 300	64ch measure

Motifs & Components

Six ornaments and one button hierarchy carry the entire direction. All are CSS or inline SVG — no image assets, no licensing, no weight on the page.

RULES

- ✓ One gilt button per viewport. Everything else is ghost or purple.
- ✓ 3px radius, never more. Sharp corners read as engraved; pills read as consumer app.
- ✓ Hairlines carry gold, fills carry purple. Gold is never used as a large area of colour.
- ✓ Alternating bands. Ink → parchment → dark grey → parchment → purple, so no two neighbours share a ground.

WHAT DOES NOT CHANGE

- ✓ Nav bar layout. 64px row, mark left, seven centred items in the same order, actions right.
- ✓ Log In and Get Started stay. Same position, same order, same routes — /login and /signup.
- ✓ Mega menus. Services, Solutions and Company keep their click-to-open panels and item copy.
- ✓ Footer layout. Same five link columns, newsletter, socials and full compliance disclaimer.
- ✓ Every section, in order. Hero → Services → Why Us → Partners → Reviews → Insights → FAQ → CTA.
- ✓ All body copy. Only two additions: a serif line under each section eyebrow, shown in gold on these plates.

The Navigation Bar

Structurally identical to production. Only the surface changes: ink field, gilt hairline beneath, gold hover, and Get Started promoted to the one gilt action on the page.

Default state. Mark, seven links and both actions sit exactly where they do today — only the ground, the type and the accent colour move.

Open state

Services mega menu. Same click-to-open behaviour, same eight items and same descriptions as navigationData.ts. The panel gains a gold hairline frame, a 30px astrolabe tile per item and a bordered promo card in place of the photographic panel.

- ✓ Active item marked with a gilt underline, not a colour swap
- ✓ Ask Vasco gets a bordered gold chip — the one navigational flourish, fitting for the ship's navigator
- ✓ Mobile drawer inherits the same ink field and gold dividers
- ✓ Authenticated state still swaps both actions for the profile dropdown

Hero

The same four rotating slides, the same SA-flag credential pill, the same stats strip — set against a purple dawn with a wind rose rising off the right edge.

Set the heading free

The headline moves to Cormorant at 76px and breaks onto two lines, with the rotating accent word — Future. · Confidence. · Expert Guidance. · Most. — carrying the gilt gradient.

- ✔ All four slides keep their copy and both CTAs
- ✔ Progress indicators become gilt rules — the 8s auto-advance is unchanged
- ✔ Stat values move to the serif; each icon gains an astrolabe ring
- ✔ Rose and graticule are inline SVG at ~4KB — no image request

VI

Our Services

All eight cards, all eight descriptions, in the same 4-across grid — now on parchment, with cartouche corners and a roman numeral on every plate.

Eight plates in an atlas

Cards are treated as engraved plates: a warm vignette over the existing photography, an ink badge holding the service icon, and the card's numeral top-right.

- ☑ Same eight services, same order, same links — Cashback still opens its modal
- ☑ Existing photography reused untouched; only the overlay is new
- ☑ Titles move to Cormorant 24 with a short gilt rule beneath
- ☑ Full-width buttons become quieter inline links, so the grid reads calmer

Why Us?

The ship,
the crew,
the instruments

- ✓ Heading "Why us?" retained as the section eyebrow
- ✓ Roman numerals give the three columns a reading order
- ✓ Graticule at 5.5% keeps the flat grey from going dead

VIII

Trusted Partners

The same twelve providers, paged four at a time, with the same chevrons, dots and View All Partners modal trigger.

Logos need a frame

Provider marks come in a dozen different shapes and weights. Setting each on its own bordered ivory plate gives the row a rhythm the current free-floating layout can't hold.

- ✔ Discovery, Old Mutual, Sanlam, Liberty, Momentum, Allan Gray, BrightRock, Hollard, Stanlib, Capital Legacy, Sygnia, JUST
- ✔ Logos are never recoloured — each keeps its own brand equity
- ✔ Pagination dots gain a gilt active bar

IX

What Our Clients Say

Three testimonials, verbatim. The purple wash returns here so the page breathes between two parchment bands.

- ✔ Stars move from yellow-400 to brand gold

Take the First Step

Same two-column CTA: messaging, four trust points and the contact strip on the left; the live enquiry form on the right, now cut from parchment rather than white.

The one gilt moment

Everything above has been building to a single action. Get Started Today is the only full-width gilt button on the page, sitting on the warmest surface in the design.

- ✓ All five fields, the service dropdown and the consent line are unchanged
- ✓ Same Supabase contact-form endpoint and same toast copy on success
- ✓ Labels move to 9.5px spaced caps so the fields dominate, not the chrome
- ✓ Phone, email and office details keep their existing links

XII

The Footer

Every column, link, field and word of the compliance disclaimer preserved — re-set on near black under a solid gilt rule.

Ballast

A footer this dense wants structure, not decoration. Serif column headings each carry a short gilt rule; the wind rose watermark sits at 16% behind the link columns.

- ☑ Company · Services ×2 · Resources · Legal — same five columns, same twenty links
- ☑ Stay Connected newsletter keeps its double opt-in flow
- ☑ LinkedIn, Instagram and YouTube in the same order
- ☑ FSP 54606 disclosure reproduced in full, at a legible 9.5px

XIII

The Whole Voyage

The complete homepage, top to bottom, read left to right in four columns — so the band rhythm and the scarcity of gold can be judged at a glance.

XIV

Taking It to Code

The direction is deliberately cheap to implement: it is mostly tokens, one font pair and six ornaments, with no change to routing, data or component structure.

TOKEN CHANGES

--PRIMARY	#6D28D9 — unchanged
--GOLD	#C7A24C — new
--GOLD-LT	#E7CE96 — new
--SECTION-WHITE	#FFFFFF → #F7F3EA
--SECTION-DARK-GRAY	#313653 → #1C2027
--RADIUS	0.625rem → 3px

Most of the re-skin lands in `src/styles/globals.css` and `src/index.css`. Because `-primary` does not move, every component that already consumes it — buttons, badges, focus rings, the admin surfaces — inherits the new look without edits.

SEQUENCING

- ✓ 1 · Tokens and fonts. Add the gold ramp, parchment and Cormorant; self-host the variable font (~38KB latin subset).
- ✓ 2 · Ornament primitives. Six small components: WindRose, Graticule, CableRule, Cartouche, AstrolabeRing, Eyebrow.
- ✓ 3 · Nav and Footer. Shared shell first, so every other page inherits the direction immediately.
- ✓ 4 · Homepage sections. Top to bottom; each is a self-contained block in `HomePage.tsx`.
- ✓ 5 · Roll outward. Service pages, Solutions, Company, then the authenticated portal.

OPEN QUESTIONS

- 🔗 Logo lockup. These plates set the wordmark in Cormorant beside the existing sail. The production PNG lockup drops in unchanged if you'd rather not touch the mark.
- 🔗 Contrast. Gold on ink measures 7.1:1 and passes AA at every size used here. Gold on parchment is reserved for rules and never carries text.
- 🔗 Serif headings. Section eyebrows here add a short serif line ("Charted for Every Passage"). Drop them and the direction still holds.
- 🔗 Photography. Current library works as-is under the vignette. A future shoot with warmer grading would lift it further.

“Navegar é preciso.”

Sailing is necessary. The old Portuguese motto of the navigators — and a fair description of what an independent adviser does for a living.
